1. The applicant is hereby notified that this International Preliminary Examining Authority transmits herewith the international preliminary report on patentability and its annexes, if any, established on the international application.
2. A copy of the report and its annexes, if any, is being transmitted to the International Bureau for communication to all the elected Offices.
3. Where required by any of the elected Offices, the International Bureau will prepare an English translation of the report (but not of any annexes) and will transmit such translation to those Offices.
4. REMINDER

The applicant must enter the national phase before each elected Office by performing certain acts (filing translations and paying national fees) within 30 months from the priority date (or later in some Offices) (Article 39(1)) (see also the reminder sent by the International Bureau with Form PCT/IB/301).

Where a translation of the international application must be furnished to an elected Office, that translation must contain a translation of any annexes to the international preliminary report on patentability. It is the applicant's responsibility to prepare and furnish such translation directly to each elected Office concerned.

For further details on the applicable time limits and requirements of the elected Offices, see Volume II of the PCT Applicant's Guide.

The applicant's attention is drawn to Article 33(5), which provides that the criteria of novelty, inventive step and industrial applicability described in Article 33(2) to (4) merely serve the purposes of international preliminary examination and that "any Contracting State may apply additional or different criteria for the purposes of deciding whether, in that State, the claimed inventions is patentable or not" (see also Article 27(5)). Such additional criteria may relate, for example, to exemptions from patentability, requirements for enabling disclosure, clarity and support for the claims.

Box No. III Non-establishment of opinion with regard to novelty, inventive step and industrial applicability

1. The questions whether the claimed invention appears to be novel, to involve an inventive step (to be non-obvious), or to be industrially applicable have not been examined in respect of:

Re Item III.

Rule 39.1(iv) PCT - Method for treatment of the human or animal body by surgery

Re Item V.

- 1 The following document is referred to in this communication:
D1 : US 2002/193801 A1 (MARCHIONE ANDREAS ET AL) 19 December 2002
(2002-12-19)
- 2 Document D1, which is considered to represent the most relevant state of the art, discloses (the references in parenthesis applying to this document) a guide wire location means (fig. 8) for locating, in use, a guide wire at an axis of a neck of a patient's femur comprising:
 - a base part (1) for securement to a head of the femur;
 - a part securable (3) to the base part and adjustable relative thereto;
 - a part (6) for directly or indirectly receiving a wire guide, said wire guide receiving part being securable to said adjustable part (fig. 10); and
 - sighting means including a probe (13) having a part engagable with the head or neck of the femur.

From this, the subject-matter of independent claim 1 differs in that the part securable to the base part is spherically adjustable relative thereto.

- 2.1 The subject-matter of claim 1 is therefore novel (Article 33(2) PCT)
The problem to be solved by the present invention may be regarded as improving the adjustment movement of the guide wire location means.
- 2.2 The solution to this problem proposed in claim 1 of the present application is considered as involving an inventive step (Article 33(3) PCT) for the following reasons:
In the guide wire location means according to document D1, a first inclination of the wire receiving part is possible and then the wire receiving part can be translated to position the guide in front of the bone insertion point.
With the spherically adjustable movement, the adjustment of the angle of the guide does not modify (like the tilting movement in D1 does) the position of the entry point in the bone and therefore no translation is needed.

- 2.3 Claims 2-30 are dependent on claim 1 and as such also meet the requirements of the PCT with respect to novelty and inventive step.
